USS MISSOURI MEMORIAL ASSOCIATION RECEIVES $10,000 GRANT FROM FIRST HAWAIIAN BANK FOUNDATION

Grant to Subsidize Educational Programs and Offerings for Low-Income Title I Schools

Pearl Harbor, HI – (September 6, 2013) – The USS Missouri Memorial Association announced today the receipt of a grant for $10,000 from the First Hawaiian Bank Foundation. Grant monies will be used to subsidize educational field trips to the USS Missouri for students from Hawaii’s Title I schools. During the 2012-2013 school year, 227 Hawaii public schools, including 22 charter schools were classified as Title I schools, where a disproportionate number of students live in some form of poverty. Qualifying schools that wish to visit the ship will have their student admissions and transportation supported.

“We are truly grateful to the First Hawaiian Bank Foundation for this generous grant. The Battleship Missouri Memorial is an extraordinary venue for teaching young people and offers an educational experience unlike any other here on the islands,” said Michael Carr, President and COO of the USS Missouri Memorial Association. “Students have the opportunity to learn first-hand the USS Missouri’s important role in history and why those who sailed on her decks in the service of this great nation deserve a place of honor.”

Since opening in 1999, the Battleship Missouri Memorial has hosted over 215,000 youth education visitors, with many schools returning year after year, thanks to the generosity of grants and donors. Educational offerings include hands-on lessons of World War II-era history in addition to programs centered on vital areas of science, technology, engineering and math (STEM). Students who participate in these programs learn real-world applications of science, math and technology concepts, all while gaining a greater sense of history.
